The Editors received much encouragement, and useful leads, from stories about the book carried in the Associated Press, United Press International, New York Herald Tribune, New York World-Telegram & Sun, Parade, Chicago Tribune, and numerous other newspapers and magazines throughout the country.

The Editors wish to acknowledge with gratitude the help of hundreds of alumni associations, sororities, and professional and business associations who made many thousands of suggestions, as well as the many individuals who volunteered their help, noteworthy among whom were Miss Dorothy Thomas, Editor and Publisher of "Women Lawyers in the United States," and Miss Laura Miller Derry, Editor, "Digest of Women Lawyers and Judges."

The Editors trust that the results of their efforts will be found to warrant the confidence placed in them by all who have given so generously of time and effort in order to be of help, and that their cooperation will continue through future editions. The Editors, of course, gladly absolve their cooperators from all blame for the shortcomings this Third Edition may have; they alone are responsible for listings and omissions.

preface

This Third Edition of WHO'S WHO of AMERICAN WOMEN is an outgrowth of the success and demand that have greeted the biographical directory since its introduction in 1958.

The constancy of the demand . . . the widespread wish to keep abreast of women's ascending careers . . . make it imperative that the book be revised and reissued biennially.

This compilation either sketches in condensed-to-essential style, or lists (starting on Page 1147) those biographees currently entered in the Women's Section of the Marquis National Biographee Reference File. The File reflects the greatest prestige, regardless of the division into sketches and listings and regardless of the variable incidence of the publication of individual data.

Partially mirroring the changing emphases in the feminine vocational world, the Third Edition includes these features:

• Over 7,500 new names among the more than 20,000 sketched.

• Incorporation of "must" names, including all U. S. women sketched in Who's Who in America. These Who's Who in America names appear either in full or capsule form in WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN.

In instances of the latter form, reference may be made to the current volume of Who's Who in America.

• Increased coverage of many pursuits, such as design, authorship of children's books, science, art, ballet, and various facets of business and government.

• A list of "Outstanding Women of 1963," selected by the Editors of WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN for citations.

These steps, along with the updating of sketches sustained from the Second Edition, indicate that the Third Edition represents a refinement of its highly acclaimed predecessors . . . is, in fact, a new book.

Two broad aims have characterized the Third Edition of WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN, as they did the prior editions. These aims are:

1. To present women outstanding as women, without regard to their accomplishments or positions in relation to men; in other words, to stress the woman who stands out from her sisters.

2. To use achievement or occupational position, rather than wealth or social position, as the criteria for eligibility. The book, of course, does include women who have acquired wealth through their own efforts or have applied much of their inheritances to beneficent ends. On the other hand, many of the listees are in fields marked far more by service than by monetary return.

The enormous task of assembling 20,000 names suitable for WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN was met by Marquis researchers and editors in a variety of ways: Through lists provided by Advisory Patrons enumerated on the opposite page and by a wide range of other organizations; through constant examination of newspapers, periodicals, books by and about women, and other media; through visits to art galleries, concerts and other settings for meritoriousness; through nominations from friends or colleagues of the potential listee. Desire to be in the book was not sufficient reason for inclusion; it had to be accompanied by demonstrable merit.

The high standards and uniqueness of WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN have made it indispensable to many kinds of libraries . . . to educational institutions . . . to newspapers, television and radio stations . . . to numerous women's organizations, and groups involved in research.

The contribution rendered by this book was summarized by an attorney who said: "The women of America have done many things for their country and their fellow men and women, and your volume is a compliment to all women who live in the United States of America."

In closing, the editors express their deepest appreciation to everyone who co-operated in the compilation of this volume, with a special nod to the Advisory Patrons. Special thanks also are due the biographees themselves . . . the women of achievement who interrupted their busy schedules to supply initial data, check manuscripts and proofs, and make this book possible.

ALPHABETIC PRACTICES

Names are arranged alphabetically according to the name, whether married or maiden, chosen by the biographee herself for listing.

Surnames beginning with Mac are arranged alphabetically under M. This likewise holds for names beginning with Mc; that is, all names beginning Mc will be found in alphabetical order after those beginning Mac.

Surnames beginning with St. (Saint) are all arranged before names beginning Sta. and are themselves arranged according to the second part of the surname (St. Clair before St. Dennis). Names prefixed with Saint (spelled out) are arranged in regular alphabetical order.

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS

A generous sampling of the sketches in this Third Edition of WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN confirms the growing stature and representation of women in all meritorious fields . . . and helps illuminate the diversity of the book itself.

The sampling consists of the first 1,000 sketches received from the printer in galley-proof form prior to publication. Because their arrangement was merely alphabetical, they are a true reflection of the book as a whole in its vocational distribution.

Percentagewise, the sample distribution is as follows:

Art

FOR THE EDITORS

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
SEPTEMBER 16, 1963

Chairman of the Board
MARQUIS—WHO'S WHO, INC.

Two of the WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN Citations Awarded in 1963

These honorees have received the citations both as individuals and as representatives of the solid, shining achievement of the 20,000 women recorded in this volume . . . achievement in the professions, business, culture and the public welfare.

The publishers inaugurated the "Outstanding Women" awards with the Second Edition of WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN. The deeply appreciative response—from the recipients, readers of news stories about the awards, and everyone interested in recognition of women's accomplishment—encouraged not only the continuation of such citations with the Third Edition, but also the announcement of the 1963 citations in the book itself.

Selection of the 1963 honorees was not governed by narrow restrictions, nor by any effort, necessarily, to judge who is "best" in a particular field; it was governed by combinations of circumstances.

Some of these women long have been in the public eye, others have attained sure stature with relative recency. Some are in fields traditionally graced by women; others epitomize the growing prominence of women in callings that men had virtually monopolized.

However, they hold in common—with each other and with the other listees in WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN—the power to make life more rewarding for us all.

The honorees—with the text of their citations—are:

SPECIAL CITATION

Mrs. John O'Hara, Princeton, New Jersey

Mrs. John O'Hara—in her dedicated, zealous and unflagging service as president of the Association for the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute from 1959 until early 1963—has contributed momentously to the Institute's progressiveness and success. In a land where many facilities for the emotionally ill are drearily outmoded, Mrs. O'Hara and the women of her Association have helped transform the 65-year-old Institute into a model of modern brightness. They raised the funds for its swimming pool, television and a "Magic Trunk" of other gifts. Through enlistment of public sympathy and understanding, Mrs. O'Hara and the Association have been instrumental in making the Institute a center for treatment of emotionally disturbed youngsters, alcoholics, epileptics and other cases . . . a place of advanced techniques and drugs . . . a pleasant village where human beings, flowers and lawns grow healthfully, and where recovering patients have attractive "self help" cottages. In an age that emphasized new voyages into Outer Space, Mrs. O'Hara's wonderful mission is a heart-warming reminder of the needed search for Inner Man. For this contribution to society, Mrs. John O'Hara is cited by the Board of Editors of WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN as an outstanding woman.

ART

Joyce Treiman, Pacific Palisades, California

In her rich and flamboyant portrayals of the human image—capturing the mysterious splendor of the individual—painter Joyce Treiman has exhibited unusual insight into the nature of man and art. Her paintings—flowing as if from a restless enthusiasm—reflect a belief in the solemnity of momentary experiences.

BUSINESS

Beatrice Alice Hicks, Bloomfield, New Jersey

Touring the world as director of the United States delegation to the International Management Congress in Sao Paulo, Paris, and Australia and most recently as a noted representative of the Professional Engineering Society on a good will and fact finding tour of South America, industrialist and engineer Beatrice Alice Hicks has dramatically and graciously excelled in a treacherous field once considered a "no woman's land."

CIVIC ACTIVITIES

Elizabeth Ellen Marvel, Hastings, Nebraska

As national president of the Young Women's Christian Association since 1961, Elizabeth Ellen Marvel has contributed in a singularly invigorating way to the organization's freshly designed. all-encompassing programs. With a creative mind and soul, she has masterfully guided the YWCA's daily and spiritual activities as one long experienced in the art of leadership.

EDUCATION

Margaret Irene Rufsvold, Bloomington, Indiana

As the quietly dedicated director of the library science division of Indiana University for nearly fifteen years, educator-librarian Margaret Irene Rufsvold has embraced not only the far-reaching responsibilities of her position, but also has adventurously undertaken a variety of related activities—as collaborator on educational films, as member of the governor's commission on children and youth, and most distinctively as consultant on library services for Thailand.

GOVERNMENT

Genevieve Blatt, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Genevieve Blatt has ascended with true, knowing steps from eager party worker to her position as Secretary of Internal Affairs for Pennsylvania. With a versatility and ease almost unparalleled, she has excelled in the meticulous details as well as the broad perspectives of her important office.

JOURNALISM

Agness M. Underwood, Los Angeles, California

With the teeming metropolis of Los Angeles as her vivid setting, Agness M. Underwood—the only woman city editor of a major daily, the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner—carries on a fiery one-woman dialogue with the city's visible life and that of the underworld. Awarded the National Federation of Press Women's "Outstanding Woman in Journalism" award in 1962, Agness Underwood successfully runs her office with robust enthusiasm, hard work—and an occasional jesting blank fired from her desk drawer pistol.

LAW

Judge Sarah Tilghman Hughes, Dallas, Texas

Judge Sarah T. Hughes' distinction since 1961 as a United States district judge in Dallas is not only a rare tribute to womanhood but a long-deserved personal encomium . . . to the knowledge, discernment and nobly human principles she has demonstrated as judge of the 14th District Court of Texas and as a leader in many civic, foreign-affairs and educational causes.

LITERATURE

Katherine Anne Porter, Washington, D. C.

In her many memorable short stories and most zealously in her recent novel, "Ship of Fools," Katherine Anne Porter has shown an artistry, awareness and universality achieved by few other living writers. Widely traveled in a confused world and in the ways of mankind, she has brought to them a distinctive light of understanding.

MEDICINE

Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, Washington, D. C.

Inherently skeptical of the "wonder-working" aūra associated with modern drugs—being developed at a pace beyond imagination—government medical officer Dr. Frances O. Kelsey became a national heroine and winner of the presidential Gold Medal for her exposure of the awesome drug thalidomide. Today—as chief of the investigational drug branch of the Food and Drug Administration—her work continues, though now more painfully stringent, in what is the crucial task of assuring the absolute safety of all medicine.

MUSIC

Grace Bumbry, native of St. Louis, Missouri, currently in Basel, Switzerland

With her fresh, lucid, vibrant voice, mezzo-soprano Grace Bumbry has endeared audiences in Europe, Japan and America, including the listeners at her "command performance" in the White House. Already she is regarded as one of the great Wagnerian soloists. A soulful, handsome woman—gracefully suggestive of an elegant dancer—she is universally admired for her perseverance and earnestness, both as a musician and as a human being.

SCIENCE

Rachel Carson, Silver Springs, Maryland

Concerned with the possibility of a silent spring—"a world where the enchanted forest of the fairy tales becomes the poisonous forest"—biologist and author Rachel Carson carefully researched (for four and one half years) the indiscriminate use of pesticides on nature. Universally acclaimed for her farsighted analysis and quiet precision, Miss Carson has cautioned in her book "Silent Spring": "We have allowed these chemicals to be used with little or no advance investigation of their effect on soil, water, wildlife, and man himself. Future generations are unlikely to condone our lack of prudent concern for the integrity of the natural world that supports all life."

THEATER

Barbara Harris, New York, New York

Whimsical, provocative, flirtatious, impersonator extraordinary—at once a sheepish school child, a vamp, a butterfly—actress Barbara Harris has cleverly enlivened the theater in performances with Second City—New York and Chicago—and in the wily "Oh Dad, Poor Dad . . ." For her brilliant escapades, she has won the unqualified praise of the vigilant New York drama critics—and madcap audiences as well.
